PICKING UP THE PIECES: RESTORING RURAL HOUSING AND COMMUNITIES AFTER A DISASTER
When a disaster strikes a rural area, one of the most serious problems may be a lack of information about resources and assistance available for recovery efforts. This guide is intended to help survivors and local organizations identify resources to rebuild their homes and communities. It emphasizes housing assistance.

INTRODUCTION

Disaster relief efforts in the United States are coordinated by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), now part of the Department of Homeland Security. Not every disaster warrants FEMA’s intervention, but under the provisions of the legislation that established FEMA, when a disaster “is beyond the capabilities of state and local resources,” the President may declare a “major disaster” or an “emergency.” Local, state, and FEMA officials evaluate the disaster, and submit a request for a declaration to the Director of FEMA, who reviews the request, submits it to the President, and makes recommendations to the President.

When the President makes a major disaster declaration, FEMA establishes offices in the federally declared disaster area to serve as centralized points of relief management. FEMA aids disaster survivors by directing them to the assistance program(s) (both public and private) for which they are eligible and that will be of the most benefit to them. In sum, the agency serves as the umbrella organization that coordinates the relief efforts of all relief agencies, public and private, local and national. Thus it brings disaster recovery assistance into the stricken community.

FEMA’s role is especially important to disaster victims in rural areas due to a scarcity of local institutions with ready access to potential recovery resources and the ability to coordinate relief efforts. However, in spite of FEMA’s coordination, one of the most serious problems facing disaster victims in rural areas may still be a lack of information about the resources and assistance available to them. The Housing Assistance Council (HAC) has prepared this guide to short- and long-term housing and community development resources as a partial response to that critical need. It is intended for use by disaster-affected individual households as well as by community organizations acting on their behalf.

It is hoped that this guide will inform local efforts to match resources with need more efficiently. Moreover, it is hoped that the guide’s identification of existing contact persons and agencies will increase coordination among them and stimulate the further development of community-based resources such as housing development corporations and advocacy agencies.

Following this Introduction, a section entitled “Initial Response” outlines the process that disaster-stricken communities can expect to undergo following the catastrophe. The section on “Specific Housing Resources for Disasters” describes the principal forms of assistance available to those whose homes have been damaged or destroyed by disasters. These are programs specifically designed for use in disaster recovery situations. Next, a section on “General Housing Resources” provides descriptions of key agencies and some of the programs they administer that are relevant to housing recovery. In each case, the guide provides the address of the agency office or offices from which more detailed information can be obtained. Finally, a section entitled “Reaching the Hard-to-Reach” briefly discusses the special problems of meeting the housing needs of low-income rural residents. Although there are no simple or universally applicable solutions to these special problems, some creative approaches have been developed in other areas that may suggest comparable or complementary approaches in disaster-damaged areas.
The appendices to this guide contain listings of disaster recovery-related and housing-relevant agencies for each state. Agencies that offer direct assistance as well as those that can assist in identifying resources are included. Disaster-affected individuals should contact state agencies for local referrals.

The last appendix is a sample form for disaster survivors to use in maintaining a record of the disaster recovery process. Make a note of dates, what you did or said, who else was present (include full name, organization, and job title), and what they did or said. This will be useful to those providing assistance and may be important for future applications, tax returns, insurance claims, appeals, and lawsuits. All correspondence and receipts relating to the recovery process should be kept, whether they seem important or not.
INITIAL RESPONSE

Transient Housing

The first stage of response to a disaster is to supply immediate shelter to those whose homes are no longer usable. This “Transient Housing” phase includes using shelters provided by local governments and by the Red Cross, Salvation Army, Church World Service, Mennonite Disaster Service, and other similar religious or secular nonprofit organizations; doubling up with friends and relatives; and staying at hotels and motels when no other options are available.

Disaster Housing

As soon as possible, federal and other disaster agencies attempt to move into a second stage of assistance, classified as “Disaster Housing” (formerly called “Temporary Housing”) aid. Here, primarily two mutually exclusive approaches are utilized: the home repair grant program and use of existing rental resources. (To apply for any of the following types of Disaster Housing assistance, follow the procedure outlined in the “Application Procedure” section on pages 4-5.)

Home Repair Program

Home Repair Assistance is a check to restore a home to a livable condition. The amount of the check is based on structural damage, as determined by a FEMA inspection.

It should be noted that where a homeowner has insurance that will cover the needed repairs, insurance funding must be used rather than a Home Repair grant.

Use of Existing Resources

Where uninsured damage exceeds the home repair limit, efforts are made to place households in “Existing Resources.” These are generally vacant rental units in the community suitable to the household’s needs (measured in terms of number of bedrooms needed). They can include existing housing currently in Rural Housing Service, Department of Housing and Urban Development, and Department of Veterans Affairs inventories of acquired properties, although in most affected counties this is a fairly limited resource. In any event, rent-free occupancy is provided to currently homeless people for as many as 18 months, pending long-term repair or replacement of their own homes.

Displaced homeowners are certified for Disaster Housing assistance in three-month increments. This assistance is terminated whenever their “Permanent Housing Plan” (which must be developed and approved during the initial period of Disaster Housing assistance) has been realized. Where it cannot be realized within the 90-day period, the assistance is continued. Displaced renters are normally given Disaster Housing assistance for only one or two months, although the period can be extended if adequate alternative housing continues to be unavailable.
FEMA Mobile Homes

The final form of Disaster Housing assistance is rent-free occupancy in a federally provided mobile home. This form is utilized as a last resort when there is insufficient adequate Existing Resource housing available. When adequate alternate housing is not available to meet long-term needs, the provided mobile homes may subsequently be made available for sale to the occupants.

Mortgage and Rental Assistance

Those whose homes have not been damaged but who are experiencing financial difficulties because of the disaster may be eligible to receive temporary mortgage and rental assistance.

State and Local Emergency Services

Every state has its own government agency that provides disaster and emergency assistance. This may include different kinds of housing services. These agencies are listed in Appendix F. Local governments may have emergency services agencies or may assign disaster assistance duties among a number of different agencies; for example, emergency shelter may be coordinated by the Department of Human Services. For the address and phone number of your local emergency services agency, contact your state emergency management agency (listed in Appendix F) or FEMA Regional Office (listed in Appendix B), or look in the local government section of your phone book.

Permanent Housing

The ultimate objective, of course, is a third stage in which all those who suffered housing loss as a result of disasters have successfully restored their housing situation to its pre-disaster status. While the first resource that must be utilized in this process is whatever insurance coverage the household has, there are also a number of government programs that can be used in combination with that insurance and with each other to make the victim's housing situation “whole” once more. The largest of these programs are summarized later in this guide.

In each state that contains counties that have been federally declared disaster areas, FEMA establishes a Disaster Field Office (DFO). The DFO works closely with state and local officials to coordinate statewide disaster relief and recovery efforts. FEMA may also establish one or more Disaster Recovery Centers (DRCs) in the disaster-affected area. The DRCs’ primary purpose is to provide a place to which disaster victims can go to speak with representatives of various assistance programs (including government programs). Disaster victims can go to a DRC to receive advice, information, or counseling. The centers are kept in operation as long as required. For DFO and DRC locations, contact your FEMA Regional Office (see Appendix B).

Application Procedure

Important note: Several different agencies officially administer assistance programs, but the process of applying for assistance is centralized: the disaster survivor must complete a multi-purpose application over the phone on the Federal Emergency Management Agency’s toll-free national teleregistration hotline or online. General inquiries regarding applications for assistance should also be directed to the toll-free hotline. Disaster Field Offices coordinate disaster relief efforts statewide and can be contacted for general information as well.

Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA)

toll-free teleregistration hotline:
1-800-462-9029
1-800-462-7585 (TDD)
The hours when this number is staffed vary, depending on the severity and number of disasters at any point in time.

In addition to registering by phone, residents of federal disaster areas may apply online for assistance, as well as find valuable recovery information, at www.fema.gov.

FEMA also operates a toll-free “helpline” at 1-800-525-0321. Callers can obtain information about FEMA programs. In addition, those who have already applied for assistance through the teleregistration hotline can check on the status of their applications or apply for additional assistance.

Over the phone with FEMA, the disaster survivor will be asked to provide information for a multi-purpose application. The completed application will be considered by FEMA staff, and an inspector will visit the victim’s property and assess the damage it sustained. Within two weeks the applicant will usually be notified of the type of assistance for which she or he has qualified. The final application deadline for individuals and households is within 60 days of the date that the county was federally declared a disaster area. Private nonprofit organizations and public agencies applying for assistance are subject to different deadlines and should contact the FEMA help line for further information.

In addition to aiding disaster victims in completing their applications for assistance, a number of other disaster assistance services are provided over the phone on the FEMA hotline. These include emergency provision of food, clothing, and medical assistance, free legal advice, counseling, representation and referrals, tax assistance, and information on disaster unemployment assistance.

Appeals

The appeals process is not a formal one. Applicants for disaster relief who are declared ineligible or whose assistance is being terminated are entitled to appeal that decision. When applying for aid, applicants are either given or sent a general information sheet about the process. To request that one’s application be reconsidered or for information about assistance received, applicants must call the toll-free number listed on the information sheet or write a formal appeal to the address shown in their letter.

Conditions and Limitations of FEMA Assistance

Non-discrimination: All forms of FEMA disaster housing assistance are available to any affected... household that meets the conditions of eligibility. No federal entity or official (or their agent) may discriminate against any individual on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, disability, or economic status.

_Lawful Presence:_ All recipients of FEMA disaster housing assistance must be lawfully present in the United States and its territories. You must sign a declaration stating that you are lawfully present to be considered for assistance.

_Household Composition:_ People living together in one residence before the disaster are expected to continue to live together after the disaster. Generally, assistance is provided to the pre-disaster household as a unit. If, however, the assistance provided to the household is not shared with you, or if the new residence is too small or causes you undue hardship, you may appeal for assistance separate from your pre-disaster household.
SPECIFIC HOUSING RESOURCES FOR DISASTERS

The following are programs specifically designed to assist in the housing recovery process.

Cora Brown Fund

Type: Any unmet needs, including home repair or rebuilding assistance.

Program Name: Cora Brown Fund Assistance.

Form of Assistance: Grant for “disaster-related unmet needs of families who are unable to obtain adequate assistance . . . from other sources.”

Eligible Recipients: Residents of designated disaster areas.

Terms: Straight grant. Funds cannot duplicate assistance for which a person is eligible from other sources.

Application: Must complete the multi-purpose assistance application by calling the toll-free FEMA teleregistration hotline, 1-800-462-9029 or online at www.fema.gov.

Individuals and Households Program

Type: To meet disaster-related necessary expenses or serious needs (including cost of housing repair or replacement) that cannot be covered by other program resources.

Agency: Federal Emergency Management Agency, jointly with the state.

Program Name: Individuals and Households Program (IHP). This program consolidates two previously separate programs, “Temporary Housing Assistance” and “Individual and Family Grant Programs.”

Form of Assistance: Grant of up to $26,200 per individual or household with respect to any single emergency or major disaster. Housing repair assistance cannot exceed $5,200, and housing replacement assistance is capped at $10,500.

Eligible Recipients: Individuals or families with disaster-related necessary expenses or serious needs that cannot be met through other means.

Terms: Straight grant.

Application: Must complete the multi-purpose assistance application by calling the toll-free FEMA teleregistration hotline, 800-462-9029, or online at www.fema.gov.

Public Assistance Program
Type: Funding for the repair of public housing authority facilities and certain low-income housing facilities that are damaged by a major disaster, as declared by the President. The public housing authority may apply directly to FEMA for public assistance grants. Other housing groups go through their state to determine participation.

Form of Assistance: A federal grant that is not less than 75 percent of the eligible cost for emergency measures and permanent restoration. The state determines how the non-federal share (up to 25 percent) is split with the applicants. For small projects (under $48,900), the grant is based on an estimate of the cost of the work. For large projects ($48,900 or more), the final grant is based on actual eligible costs. In large projects, the state will disburse progress payments, as required.

Eligible Recipients: The states, local governments, Indian tribes, private nonprofit organizations with community facilities, and American Indian and Alaskan Native Tribal organizations that own and/or operate public housing facilities. Public housing authority facilities financed by HUD, as well as publicly subsidized housing facilities that were developed and financed from other sources, such as other HUD programs (e.g., Section 8, FHA mortgage insurance, etc.) or funds provided by localities. Housing financed by USDA’s Rural Housing Service may be eligible on a case-by-case basis.

Terms: Emergency work must be completed in six months time. Permanent work must be completed in 18 months.

Application: Applicants should attend a state-sponsored Applicants’ Briefing to receive information about the Public Assistance Program and state requirements. Contact your state’s emergency management agency (see Appendix F) to find out when the Briefing will be held. Applicants should complete and submit to the state a Request for Public Assistance form. Applicants may submit the Request forms at the Applicants’ Briefing, or submit them to the state within 30 days following the designation of the area in which the damage is located. Upon receipt of the Request form from the state, FEMA will assign a Public Assistance Coordinator to work with each applicant throughout the disaster recovery period. The state also will assign an Applicant Liaison to help the applicant. Applicants should contact the Public Assistance Coordinator prior to initiating repairs to facilities with special issues (for example, environmental concerns or historic preservation). Applicants should document all damages and costs with pictures, written descriptions, and financial records.

Additional Information: See www.fema.gov/rrr/pa/9523_7.shtm or call the FEMA teleregistration hotline.
Tax Regulations for Disaster Victims

Type: Tax deduction for property losses.

Agency: Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

Program Name: Disaster Area Losses.

Form of Assistance: Some casualty losses may be deducted from income in either the year in which the disaster occurred or the previous year, whichever the taxpayer prefers. If a state or local government orders taxpayers to move or tear down homes for safety reasons, the costs are considered to be a nonbusiness casualty loss. Homeowners and renters who receive insurance money for repairing or replacing their main home or any of its contents do not have to report it as a gain.

Recipients: Any household that is a victim of a designated disaster.

Terms: Insurance money must be used to repair or replace the insured items within four years of receiving the payment.

Application: File Form 4684, Casualties and Thefts (and Form 1040X, Amended Tax Return, if you are claiming the loss on a year whose tax return you have already filed) at the same regional IRS office where you send your annual tax return.

For Additional Information: Contact an IRS representative at a FEMA Disaster Recovery Center or call the IRS Tax Information and Assistance telephone number, 1-800-829-1040. Ask for Publication 547, Casualties, Disasters and Thefts and Publication 584, Nonbusiness Disaster, Casualty, and Theft Loss Workbook. These publications can also be downloaded from the IRS Web site, www.irs.gov.

U.S. Small Business Administration - Disaster Loan Program

Type: Low-interest, long-term loans to repair and/or replace primary residence and/or personal property.

Agency: U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA).

Program Name: Home Disaster Loans.

Form of Assistance: Loans to repair and/or replace disaster-damaged or destroyed real and/or personal property to its pre-disaster condition.

Eligible Recipients: Individuals (homeowners and renters) who suffered physical property losses as a result of declared disaster in a designated area. Loans cover uninsured or underinsured losses only.
Term: Up to $240,000 ($200,000 to homeowner, $40,000 for personal property to homeowner or renter) for up to 30 years (determined by repayment ability and credit history) at an interest rate to be determined by SBA depending on a borrower's access to credit elsewhere. Borrower must have repayment ability. (Interest rates change quarterly.)

GENERAL HOUSING RESOURCES

The following are brief discussions of a number of government and private agencies that are potential resources for housing recovery because of the regular programs they administer. They are listed in alphabetical order.

American Red Cross Disaster Service

The Red Cross may provide supplemental grants to households that have exhausted all other public and private resources in repairing or replacing a disaster-damaged home. This resource is usually used in conjunction with donated labor for low-income people. For more information, call the Red Cross Disaster Service National Headquarters, 2025 E Street, NW, Washington, DC 20006, 202-303-4498 or 800-HELP-NOW (435-7669), or visit www.redcross.org/services/. For referrals and updates on Red Cross shelter services for your area, locate a local Red Cross office through www.redcross.org/services/ or by calling the Public Inquiry Center at 800-214-0441.

Area Agencies on Aging

Area Agencies on Aging (AAAs) are local nonprofit or government agencies that receive federal funds under the Older Americans Act for providing social services to the elderly, although they often receive additional funding from other government and private sources. They serve the elderly through many different programs, which vary depending on the priorities of their service areas. AAAs provide in-home services to enable people to age in their own homes, but also often provide housing with various levels of support services. To find the name, address and phone number of a local AAA, contact the State Agency on Aging listed in Appendix D, visit www.aoa.dhhs.gov, or call the National Eldercare Locator Service at 1-800-677-1116 or 202-855-1234 (TDD/TTY relay service). The federal Administration on Aging web site provides additional information on disaster assistance resources for elderly people at www.aoa.dhhs.gov/eldfam/Disaster_Assistance/Disaster_Assistance.asp.

Community Action Agencies

Community Action Agencies (CAAs) are local nonprofit or government agencies funded by the Community Services Block Grant program of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, although they often receive additional funding from other government and private sources. They are devoted to fighting poverty through many different programs, which vary depending on the priorities of their service areas. CAAs usually provide emergency shelter and other kinds of short-term financial or in-kind assistance for people in need. They also may include transitional housing and different kinds of educational and referral programs, as they aim to create long-term self-sufficiency for individuals and families. To find the name, address and phone number of a local CAA, contact the Community Action Partnership, 1100 17th Street, N.W., Suite 500, Washington, DC 20036; 202-265-7546; info@communityactionpartnership.com; www.communityactionpartnership.com.
Department of Housing and Urban Development

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) administers a number of programs including mortgage insurance, direct assistance to individuals, and funding to state and local governments for them to use in assisting individuals and local housing organizations.

The Federal Housing Administration (FHA), a branch of HUD, operates principally through programs of mortgage insurance that insure private lenders against loss on approved lending activities. Mortgage insurance is available for the financing of homeownership, rehabilitation, rental housing, purchase of mobile homes, and development of mobile home parks. As a general rule, loans are at market interest rates. Application is through FHA-approved local lenders; for more information, contact your HUD State Field Office listed in Appendix A or on HUD’s website at www.hud.gov/local. If you are unable to reach either of these information sources, the national office of the FHA can be reached at 202-401-0388.

HUD also administers a number of direct assistance programs. These include Section 8 rental assistance, operating assistance to local public housing programs, and grants for elderly housing developed through nonprofit sponsors or consumer cooperatives under Section 202 and for housing for persons with disabilities under Section 811. Except for the latter two programs, most direct assistance from HUD is administered through local public housing authorities.

Two large HUD programs provide funds to states and large cities for housing development and aid: the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program and the HOME program. These funds reach rural areas through state agencies. At some times HUD may also have CDBG funds available for a program called the Disaster Recovery Initiative, which is administered by state agencies to help primarily lower-income residents rebuild homes and businesses after disasters.

For the names, addresses, and phone numbers of public housing authorities in your area or for information on HUD programs, contact your HUD State Field Office listed in Appendix A or HUD’s website at www.hud.gov/local. Appendix E of this guide lists state housing agencies, which can also provide referrals to local housing authorities and can provide information about the HOME and CDBG programs. If you are unable to reach any of these information sources, HUD’s national office can be reached at 451 Seventh Street, SW, Washington, DC 20410; 202-708-1112 (general information); 202-708-1455 (TDD general information); 202-708-2495 (Office of Multifamily Housing, which administers the Section 202 and 811 programs).

Habitat for Humanity

Founded in 1976, Habitat for Humanity International is an ecumenical, Christian housing ministry that seeks to eliminate inadequate housing from the world and to make decent shelter a matter of conscience and action. Through volunteer labor, Habitat builds and rehabilitates homes with the help of the homeowners. Houses are sold at no profit to partner families, and no-interest mortgages are issued over a fixed period. Each family selected to become a Habitat homeowner is required to invest “sweat equity” hours into the construction of its home. Families apply to local Habitat affiliates. For more information and referrals to local affiliates, contact your regional office, visit www.habitat.org/local or call 229-924-6935, ext. 2552.
The Housing Assistance Council (HAC), based in Washington, D.C., is a source of technical assistance and of low-interest loan funds for low-income housing development. Of particular interest to disaster-affected areas, HAC loan funds may be used to assist rural communities in obtaining potable water and sanitation services. For this particular use, loans are for a period of two years with no interest the first year and five percent (5%) interest the second year. HAC operates a revolving loan fund that provides vital seed money to rural housing developers: community-based, nonprofit organizations, housing development corporations, self help housing sponsors, farm worker organizations, cooperatives, Indian tribes, public agencies, units of local government, public utility districts, and small business and minority contractors. HAC funds help these organizations and individuals take the steps necessary to improve housing and living standards for rural, low- and very-low-income households, such as creation of subdivisions and new single or multi-family housing units, rehabilitation of existing units, and improved water and waste water disposal systems in rural communities. Loans are generally short term (standard 3-year term), with a one percent (1%) service fee and a five percent (5%) interest rate. For additional information, contact the HAC national office at 1025 Vermont Avenue, N.W., Suite 606, Washington, DC 20005; 202-842-8600; cdd@ruralhome.org; www.ruralhome.org; or the regional office serving your state.

Housing Counseling Information

Information about housing counseling programs, events, and other topics is available from the Housing Counseling Clearinghouse, P.O. Box 10423, McLean, VA 22102-8423, 1-800-569-4287, www.hud.gov/offices/hsg/sfh/hcc/hcc_home.cfm.

The National Federation of Housing Counselors (NFHC) has a handbook for housing counselors and provides training and direct assistance on such matters as negotiating with lenders, appealing adverse government rulings, refinancing or recasting housing debt, and landlord-tenant relations. For more information or their printed material, contact NFHC, P.O. Box 5607, Savannah, GA 31414; 912-236-9670.

Legal Assistance

The disaster recovery process usually involves interactions with many different government agencies, private companies, and nonprofit organizations, and unless you have been unlucky enough to be in a disaster before, the whole process will be unfamiliar as well as complex. Occasionally individuals may encounter problems in their disaster recovery efforts that require legal advice. Legal aid is available for low-income individuals from a variety of sources.

The Young Lawyers Division of the American Bar Association can arrange free legal assistance for low-income disaster survivors whose cases will not generate a fee. Cases that can generate fees are passed on to local lawyer referral services. FEMA's Disaster Recovery Centers provide information about this assistance.

The National Legal Aid and Defender Association (NLADA) is an association of individuals and institutions dedicated to ensuring equal access to the legal system for low-income people. Most states do not have a system of legal aid provision, but a number of independent agencies that coordinate service among themselves. Some legal services programs focus on particular subjects or populations, such as housing discrimination, disability rights, or the elderly. When asking for a referral to legal services, make sure to ask about programs specializing in your particular situation. For a referral to local legal services, contact NLADA at 1140 Connecticut Ave, NW, Suite 900, Washington, DC 20036; 202-452-0620; www.nlada.org or the Legal Services Corporation, 333 K Street, NW, Third Floor, Washington, DC 20007-3522; 202-295-1500 (phone); 202-337-6797 (fax); info@lsc.gov (e-mail); www.lsc.gov.

National American Indian Housing Council

Standard mortgage financing for housing is not available for most Native Americans who live on reservations. This land is held in trust, and therefore cannot be sold to pay off a debt of its residents, such as a defaulted mortgage. High rates of poverty and ruralness among American Indians also contribute to the scarcity of affordable housing for them, and to the difficulty of developing it. Both HUD and the Bureau of Indian Affairs provide funds for improving Native American housing, and many tribal governments have other tribal agencies involved with housing. For more information on the unique issues of Indian housing, or for referrals to tribal housing entities and other relevant organizations, contact the National American Indian Housing Council (NAIHC) or the Housing Assistance Council’s Western Office (listed on page
NAIHC provides technical assistance and education to help Indians improve and increase the supply of housing in native areas. They can be reached at 900 2nd Street, N.E., #305, Washington, DC 20002; 202-789-1754; 1-800-284-9165; www.naihc.net.

Rural Community Assistance Program

The Rural Community Assistance Program (RCAP) provides training and technical support to improve water and wastewater systems, housing and community economic development. Available services include surveys, engineering reviews, assistance in selection of design engineers and other consultants, aid in developing funding applications, leadership development for community residents, provision of volunteers, hook-up fee grants, and other services that are focused on improving the quality of life for rural residents, including grants and loans.

The area to be served must be rural and have a significant low-income population. Requests for services and/or applications are normally through local Community Action Agencies or other community-based organizations. For more information, contact your regional RCAP.

Rural Housing Service/Rural Development

The Rural Housing Service (RHS) operates a broad range of programs to promote and support affordable housing development in rural areas. RHS offices are located in Washington, D.C., and are responsible for setting policy and developing regulations. In the field, RHS operations are carried out through the USDA’s Rural Development offices. Rural Development State Offices administer programs in a state or multi-state area. Field offices receive and process housing applications, provide counseling and supervision, and service single-family loans.

In general, RHS programs are aimed at lower-income families. To qualify under most programs, an applicant must have an adjusted family income not in excess of 80 percent of the median family income in the county. Income also frequently determines whether an applicant qualifies for grant assistance and at what interest rate a loan may be available. Maximum incomes for eligibility have been established for each county and can be obtained from Rural Development offices.

RHS housing assistance is generally limited to communities of less than 20,000 that are outside metropolitan areas or communities of less than 10,000 that are in metropolitan statistical areas but are rural in character. However, the Farm Labor Housing Loans and Grants programs may also be used in urban areas for nearby farm labor. These funds are provided to farmers, nonprofits, public agencies, Indian tribes, and farmworker associations to build, buy, improve, or repair housing for farm laborers.

For those who qualify, RHS home purchase loans can be on a no-downpayment basis, with a term of up to 33 years and an effective interest rate as low as 1 percent. (If borrower income rises during the repayment period, the effective interest rate may also rise.) Borrowers must have an ability to repay the loan, however, and must be unable to secure the necessary credit elsewhere on terms they could reasonably be expected to meet. It should also be noted that homeownership loans are not available to those who already own an adequate home.

For additional information, contact your Rural Development field office. To find the address and phone number of your field office, contact your State Office listed in Appendix C or visit www.rurdev.usda.gov/recd_map.html. State and Local Housing Agencies

Each state has at least one agency that administers state and federal programs to promote decent affordable housing for low-income individuals. Sometimes the administration of housing programs is carried out by a Department of Human Services or a Department of Community Development. Often a state will have a Housing Finance Authority that is separate from its Department of Housing. State housing agencies may give money and advice directly to low- and moderate-income people to help with rent, utilities, repairs to remove health and safety hazards, accessibility for the handicapped, and becoming homeowners. State housing agencies may construct, own, and manage public housing, which usually includes providing social services for the residents. They may give incentives and assistance to nonprofit and for-profit housing developers and owners that create and preserve affordable housing, such as mortgage subsidies, tax credits or exemptions, low-interest loans, other subsidies and grants, and technical advice. They may also have programs for historic preservation, energy conservation, fair housing, homeless shelters and services, and other specialized programs. Contact the state agency(ies) listed in Appendix E for information on housing programs in your state.

Some cities, counties, and multi-county regions have local public housing agencies or authorities. These may provide any of the services described above as possible activities of state housing agencies, although it is most likely that a local housing agency only owns and administers public housing. If a local housing agency has other programs, they are likely to be complementary to, and therefore different from, state programs. Local housing agencies and authorities sometimes administer some aspects of state or federal programs. To find out if your area has a local housing agency or housing authority, contact your state housing agency(ies) listed in Appendix E.
REACHING THE HARD-TO-REACH

The most difficult challenge in implementing housing programs is reaching the neediest households with housing assistance. Nonmetropolitan counties have fewer local resources available, and their residents are often difficult to locate and visit. Certain rural areas have historically had concentrated and intractable poverty: the Lower Mississippi Delta, the colonias along the U.S.-Mexico border, Appalachia, and Native American and Alaskan lands. At one time, rural housing was less expensive than urban housing, as a percentage of household income, but more likely to be physically inadequate. In recent decades these differences have grown much smaller, with housing affordability becoming a serious problem in rural areas. Housing programs must take these facts into consideration in order to serve low-income rural people.

While Rural Housing Service and state-administered housing programs have the greatest potential for meeting the needs of low-income rural households, they face a substantial challenge in the aftermath of disasters. Reaching the neediest families is frequently possible only by skillfully combining programs and subsidies. Following is a short list of programs and resources that have been used elsewhere to provide housing assistance for low-income rural people. HAC offers free technical assistance to organizations interested in utilizing these programs or mechanisms.

Training and Employment Programs

Often used in conjunction with home repair and rehabilitation, trainees and other volunteers are sometimes employed building components, panels, cabinets, and trusses. For example:

- federal training apprenticeships and work experience programs;
- state employment, veterans, older workers, or women’s training programs;
- workers from jails and prisons; and
- vocational school students.

Financing Mechanisms

A number of short- and long-term housing financing devices have been developed by state and local groups. The general problem includes raising large amounts of capital (housing almost always requires substantial funds) and making it work in a housing development program for those with limited income and repayment ability. In this complex strategy, financing becomes deeply entangled with subsidy methods. Although this guide deals with finance and subsidy as separate issues, both must be available to provide the needed housing. Financing examples include:

Blended mortgages are produced by combining a cheap source of housing capital (federal or state grant funds, for example) with a more widely available source (bank or tax-exempt bond funds, for example). The result is a “blended rate” that is lower than the prevailing market rate.
Mixed mortgages combine a widely available source of housing capital (e.g., bank funds) generally lent at a market rate and secured by a first mortgage, and a less expensive source (e.g., grant funds lent at low or no interest) made available as a second loan with a junior lien. The senior loan is made more secure by the enhanced security.

Skewed payments may be used with either ownership or rental developments. This strategy starts with a preferential credit source, such as a blended or mixed mortgage pool, charges the higher-income client a market rate, and reduces the rate to the lower-income client.

Deferred payment is a technique often used in rehabilitation or repair programs for older people. The borrower makes partial or zero payments on principal and/or interest. Payment is deferred until sale of the residence or death of the borrower.

Trust funds are financial mechanisms to collect, hold, and invest funds in specified housing functions. The terms of the trust dictate the way it will operate. Some sources of funds currently in use are oil and natural resource payments, housing finance agency surpluses, special appropriations by state legislatures, and surcharges on real estate transfers.

The Low Income Housing Tax Credit (LIHTC) is another tool for production of affordable rural housing. Individuals or corporations can take this tax credit – a dollar-for-dollar reduction in tax liability – if they invest in low-income housing developed by for-profits or nonprofits. The credit is administered by states, so inquiries should be made to a state housing finance agency listed in Appendix E.

Subsidy Mechanisms

The harsh truth is that many low-income people simply do not have the resources from their own earnings and savings to pay the cost of decent housing at today’s market prices. Reaching these people requires significant subsidies which, with the reduction of some federal programs, can be secured only with imagination, inventiveness, and hard work. The challenge is especially great in the aftermath of disasters where the number of hard-to-reach is quite high. Some ways to provide subsidy include:

* Capital write-down and grants, either to projects or individuals, have been widely used. Sources include a wide array of federal, state, and private funds.

* Free building materials are used extensively in rehabilitation but also in programs such as the federal Department of Energy weatherization program and by Habitat for Humanity.

* Special subsidy programs include rehabilitation financing at very low interest, construction of small energy-efficient units that do not meet financing or construction standards for government or private programs (e.g., the “warm and dry” house built widely in central Appalachia), and rental subsidy. These programs are often funded by “trust funds” mentioned above.

* Payment write-downs or guarantees have been helpfully applied to enhance the creditworthiness of a marginal borrower. The best example with which HAC is acquainted provides a “piggy back” payment to encourage RHS to make a 1 percent subsidized loan. A special fund is authorized to make a payment on behalf of a borrower who cannot quite afford the payment. For example, the Kentucky Housing Corporation (the state housing finance agency) has a fund that agrees to pay up to one-third of the monthly payment (e.g., $30) for up to five years for a borrower who is not able to afford the required RHS payment. The payment encourages RHS to make the loan which it would otherwise not make at a relatively small cost in subsidy (maximum of $360 a year or total of $1,800 in the cited example).

Shared financial responsibility through individual cosigners may provide an incentive to a lender to make a loan it would not otherwise make. RHS sometimes accepts adult children as cosigners for their elderly parents for home repair loans. Perhaps the principle can be extended to new housing. Churches, charitable groups, and businesses can become cosigners for individuals.

Other Techniques

Grants to helping organizations may provide resources for land development, construction oversight or supervision, volunteer direction or management, loan packaging, and housing counseling.

Assistance with living costs, including utility bill assistance, may provide the margin to allow low-income people to maintain themselves in decent housing.

Site development, either for developments or for single sites, may allow an individual to bring the other elements of his or her housing problems within reach.

The cited examples of ways to provide housing relief to the “hard-to-reach” are by no means an exhaustive list. These suggestions are meant to be provocative samples that will stimulate the development of suitable resources and the most effective solutions for areas, neighborhoods, and individuals.

RECORD OF ACTIVITIES AND CONTACTS

(Example follows--these records should be fairly detailed, so keep them in a notebook.)

7/16/04--Returned from shelter to find roof missing from house and much of contents waterlogged. Did not go to work (no answer when I called). Began salvaging belongings. Made arrangements to store them in neighbors’ garage (Lily and Sam Wentworth).

7/17/04--Called FEMA teleregistration number, completed assistance application, spoke with Vickie Valladarez. She said I can get a free copy of old tax returns from the IRS if mine were destroyed. Called my boss (Mary Hrcek) at home; she said not to come into work until further notice as there is no water or electricity. Continued salvaging belongings.

7/18/04--Called insurance company to report damage, spoke with my representative, Henry Hausbauer. He said an appraiser will be coming round in the next 10 business days.
